JOHN GREIG,
Agent.

THE silly season in London invariably produces a host of enquiries on interesting topics such as

Should officials bet?
Should clergymen dance?
Should nurse-maids read novels?
Should bachelors be taxed?
Should wives obey their husbands?

Even in this city we have been lectured through our local Newspapers pro and con, on a question which has been causing no little excitement.

The dull monsoon days of Bombay offer a splendid opportunity for discussions of this nature and the idea has suggested itself to us that we should disprove the question

ARE WE EXPENSIVE?

We can safely and emphatically reply to this question in the negative. It has never been our desire to attempt competition with either the "Bazaar" or the Trader in goods of low grade.

On the contrary, we have for nearly 40 years endeavoured, successfully we consider, to confine our business to the very best that Science, Art and the world's gem markets have produced. It should not, therefore, be surmised that because articles offered by us for sale are sometimes costly they are, PER SE, expensive.

Quality for quality, we claim that goods offered by us are as good an intrinsic value as those of any high class firm trading in jewellery, silver goods or watches, in an out of India. In fact, instances have come under our notice where constituents of ours have discovered, off-times too late, that they have made elsewhere have been no bargains at all, and that they could have procured an infinitely superior article at our establishment at the same price paid for the inferior article.

These are no idle words but positive facts, details of which can be provided to bona-fide enquirers. We do not brag of it; we simply refer to it to strengthen our remarks.

A reference to our general Price list will show that we do not ignore small things, since we carry in our representative stock articles priced

AS LOW AS Rs. 2.

Orders or repairs, of however small a value, are treated with the same care and respect as these applying to higher priced goods.

We therefore claim that we are in support of which statement we possess the valued testimony of a CLIENTELLE who recognise the fact that what they buy from us is artistically the best and, intrinsically, excellence value.

1902	95·1	84·7	81·9	64·0	58·3	27,878,000	10,728,000

* Approximate.

The average of the five months condition reports in the big crop years were as follows:—

Crop:—	Average:—
1904-05	84·5
1906-07	79·9
1908-09	77·9

The figures of the condition of the crop given in the Agricultural Bureau Report to hand this morning (i. e. 76·5 per cent.) are decidedly bullish, and show a deterioration of 3·9 per cent. up to 25th July, as compared with the previous report. The closing quotations in the Home markets, after receipt of so bullish a report make the position all the more difficult to understand. New York closed 12 and 5 points higher; New Orleans 1 higher and unchanged and Liverpool 4 higher. Closing prices in the New Orleans market, which is the latest market open seem to indicate either that the condition given in the Bureau Report is discredited or that the recent improvement in the weather has discounted such a condition. A telegram received to-day, however, says that only light showers have fallen in parts of Texas and that one to three inches of rain is generally required in that State to improve the crop condition. The situation is certainly perplexing, and we can only await developments in the American markets for the next two days and see the actual effect of the Bureau Report if any. In the meanwhile present weather condition must play an important part and a decline seems more likely than an advance. The Liverpool market is closed until Tuesday next.

The local market opened irregular the nominal quotation for good Broach being Rs. 315. During the morning the rate advanced to Rs. 316 1-2 and at this price the market has remained steady during the day up to the close. A small business has been done in suttas; but otherwise there is nothing doing, and quotations are more or less nominal,

For ready cotton the enquiry is moderate and prices are steady.

EPIDEMIC OF SUICIDES.

Mr. G. F. Chalk, Coroner, yesterday held inquests on three bodies of persons who had committed suicide.

The first was that of one Balia Ganoo, whose body was recovered from a well in Worli Pakadi. The deceased was a mill-hand aged about 25. He was an habitual drunkard. He went to a funeral and came home drunk. He was missed soon after and an alarm was raised that a person had jumped into a well. The body of the deceased was then recovered from the well. The jury returned a verdict of suicide by drowning.

The second inquest was on the body of one Kaikhusru Cowasji Doctor, aged 24. The deceased was the proprietor of an iron works at Clarke Road, Jacob's Circle. He went to his workshop in the morning as usual. About midday, sitting in his chair, he fired two revolver shots at his head, fracturing the skull. Inspector Shaw was communicated with and arrived at the scene soon after. He found a revolver loaded with five cartridges, two of which had been fired. A box containing 45 cartridges was found in the deceased's coat pocket.

The evidence before the Coroner showed that the deceased was heavily involved, financially. The jury returned a verdict of suicide by shooting with a revolver.

The third was an inquest on the body of one Gulam Rasool Khudabux, a ramoshi. The deceased, it was said, had suffered for some time from severe pains in the stomach. Driven beyond endurance he took up a razor and ripped open his stomach. The jury returned a verdict of suicide.

ITCHING ECZEMA ON HANDS AND FINGERS

Scratched Constantly. Long Cracks Bled and She Cried Bitterly with the Pain. Convinced Case was Incurable. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured Her.

"I have suffered for nearly five years now from a very unsightly form of eczema on my hands and fingers, in spite of the constant attention of doctors, herbalists and chemists. The places began by small watery pimples. They burst, became long cracks and often bled. I developed two large sores on the back of my right hand and on my right wrist. These became raw as if skinned and as large as five shilling pieces. The irritation was so bad that I constantly scratched until they poured with blood, and I was exhausted with the agony and cried bitterly with the pain.

"I had grown firmly convinced that my case was quite hopelessly incurable. My right hand for months looked so terrible that I was compelled to wear a glove night and day, and it irritated me so that I tore it till the blood poured from several places at once. I was distracted with the ceaseless pain and itching. I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and my delight was great when I found places that had been sore and painful for years gradually but surely healing up. They are absolutely cured now through the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which I applied constantly, binding up the worst places.

"I can do my work now like any other woman, but before I dreaded even to think of it. I felt relief after the first two or three washes with the Cuticura Soap and applications of the Cuticura Ointment, and now, after using only one and one-half boxes of the Ointment my hands are soft and white. The Cuticura Soap we use daily, it is so soothing to the skin. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my hands when doctors said I never should get them healed." (Signed) Mrs. Alys Watson, "Hazemere," The Avenue, Starbeck, nr. Harrogate, Eng., July 16, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout India, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on skin and hair, will be sent post-free on application to Muller, Maclean & Co., Calcutta or Bombay, or Newbery & Sons, 27 Charterhouse Sq., London.

THE UNIVERSITIES OF THE EMPIRE.

It is fortunate that at a time when the University of Bombay is endeavouring to put its house in order, and when through the generosity of Government the financial conditions of improvement promise to become easier, a congress of representatives of the universities of the Empire should have met in London. Wider fields and different methods of study will be suggested, and comparison will indicate the directions in which there is room for reform in internal economy. University questions have loomed large before the people of the United Kingdom and the British Empire during the last generation, and the Indian universities have not by any means been exceptional in their need for improvement and adaptation to the times. The movement for reform has spread so rapidly that even the rich and powerful universities of Oxford and Cambridge have felt its effect, and now foresee that unless they do something themselves the State will intervene to extend their usefulness. The need of scientific training even for careers in commerce and manufactures was deeply impressed upon England by the Boer War; and the idea of organized national life was for long afterwards uppermost in people's minds. As is the way in England the idea quickly faded from the popular recollection; but it remained with the growing number of professional educationists, who have since sought by every means to promote university teaching and to co-ordinate it with the work of the secondary schools. In Scotland the idea was not new, but was indeed native to the Scottish mind. Since their foundation, the Scottish universities have been popular institutions, and the spectacle of a lad o' pairts rising from obscurity to eminence in the Church or in medicine has for many generations been familiar to the Scottish people. This again was an ecclesiastical process left as a legacy to Scotland, although the debt has long since been forgotten by the Roman Church. Three out of the four Scottish universities were ecclasiastical foundations; the parish schools of pre-Reformation days were simply the cloister schools that sheltered in the monasteries or assembled under the shadow of the local church; and Knox himself, whom the Scottish people now justly hold in honour as the founder of their practical system of education, was until his fortieth year a priest of the ancient religion, and learnt all he knew, either of Latin or of administration from the mother church.

It is curious to follow the origin of popular education a little further back. The universities, which the church founded in Scotland, were modelled upon continental patterns and especially upon the universities of Bologna and of Paris. The Church of Rome has always been democratic in its sympathies and in its encouragement of learning. It recruits its clergy impartially among all classes of society, and men of lowly birth have sometimes worn the triple crown; and it was in harmony with its traditions to open the doors of its schools and universities as wide as possible. But there were no universities in Christendom until the twelfth or at the earliest the eleventh century, and the first universities in Western Europe were established after the manner of the Arab schools of Spain. When Bologna was founded intercourse between the Eastern and Western Empires had almost ceased, and knowledge of the Greek tongue had completely died out in the West. Greek science and philosophy did not spread to Italy for some centuries later except through the Arabic language; and it was directly from the Arabs that the educational impulse was communicated to Western Europe and to the Catholic Church. The Arabs themselves had caught the enthusiasm for knowledge as much from Persia and India as from the Greeks. There was a famous school of medicine in Persia before the Arabs were heard of in history; and in the first centuries of this era, Persia and India exchanged the results of scholarship and research in the same way as Germany and England do to-day. The Greeks were supreme in learning as in art; but they were aristocrats from the first, and in Christian times they lived alone gloating like misers over their treasures which they would not share with the barbarians, either of the East or of the West. But while the Greeks stood alone, those barbarians whom they despised, were bringing and receiving from the East that impulse towards the popularisation of knowledge which has created the universerties of modern Europe and of the British Empire.

It is not surprising that in two thousand years learning in India should have declined. There seems to be no prospect of its resuscitation except by the way that the official universities pursue of teaching English and conveying in that language as much information as the length of the course permits. Knowledge of English or of some European language is the necessary preliminary to acquaintance with science or scholarship; and it is therefore difficult to oppose the argument that for professional and scientific purposes the study of English should be encouraged to the fullest extent in the schools and universities of India. In these days of demands for higher education and of theoretical preparation for technical work, it simply follows that English must be learned, and learned as well as possible. But any man who knows India knows also that the keenest intellects in the country are not to be found in or near the universities, but in towns and villages, away from European influences and among men who do not know English. Some of the most learned men in Europe have come and do come to India, not to teach but to learn and to sit and meditate upon the problems of destiny at the feet of scholars who have never heard of Oxford or Leipsic and hardly of Rome. This is not a fanciful picture but a happening of the present day; and although the difficulty seems for the time to be insoluble, it is to be hoped that in the re-organization of the universities of the Empire, a place will be found in our Indian universities for Indian scholars and Indian learning, who and which still represent the ancient wisdom of this country whence the idea of a university seems first to have come.

THE PERUVIAN ATROCITIES. The civilized world stands aghast at the revelations contained in the report, submitted by Sir Roger Casement, British Consul-General in Peru, to the Foreign Office. Sir Roger expresses the belief that 90 per cent. of the surviving Indian population bear the marks of the lash. At the beginning of this century, before the Peruvian Amazon Company began its operations, the four tribes of Indians who are principally engaged in the rubber plantations, and who are described as a peaceful, unaggressive and partially civilized people, numbered 50,000; they are said to have been reduced to 10,000, and it is certain that many hundreds have perished by tortures too horrible to name in print. Almost everywhere, Sir Roger writes in his report, the Indians bore evidence of being flogged brutally, and the marks of the lash were not confined to men nor adults. Women, and even little children, were more than once found, their limbs scarred with weals left by the thong of twisted tapir-hide. The crimes charged against many men, now in the employ of the Peruvian Amazon Co., are of the most atrocious kind, including murder, violation, and constant flogging. Sir Roger supplies a list of sixteen men, all of them charged with atrocities, and in two instances particularizes crimes almost unnameable because of their inhumanity. He does not spare space in his descriptions. He quotes case after case, some of them mentioned by victims, others admitted by agents and white employees of the company, and it is true to say that none of them will fail to arouse the indignation of, and horror in, every man or woman of humane instincts. When the revelations of the atrocities committed on the Congo some years ago, were first revealed, Europe believed that those responsible for them had reached the lowest depths of human depravity. The revelations of this Amazon rubber hunt make the others pale into insignificance. They are sickening in every detail and display an incredible fiendishness in the devising of means and methods of torture. There was no respect of sex. Mothers, declares Sir Roger, would be flogged on account of shortage of rubber collected by their little sons. These children were held to be too small to chastise, and so while the little boy stood terrified and crying at the sight, his mother would be beaten "just a few strokes to make him a better worker." Sir Roger has witten many pages of verbatim evidence on torture, but it must be understood that much of what he has written can find no place in the public press for the reason that it is too revolting and loathsome. The Peruvian Government have had their attention drawn to the matter, and for such of the outrages as have been committed in their territory they have assumed responsibility. Steps are being taken in England to despatch a Roman Catholic Mission of relief to the locality, because the Roman clergy alone are permitted the opportunity to work in the country. Moreover, to quote Canon Hensley Henson, at such a time, and in such circumstances, there must be no cavilling at denominationalism. Unfortunately, a section of the German press professes to believe that Englishmen working on the plantations, are responsible for, and have taken part in, the atrocities. This, however, is happily incorrect, although some of the criminals are undoubtedly British subjects from the Barbados and the British Company was not entirely blameless when it took over the operations.

THE ALBANIAN REVOLUTION. What has previously been called "a revolt" in Albania is now boldly described as "a revolution," and we are told by Reuter to-day that it is spreading rapidly. Unless it is checked Turkey will soon be in serious straits, and in all the circumstances she will have herself to blame. There is no doubt that the Albanian people have been badly, not to say, cruelly governed, and while Turkey is entitled to explain that she herself has been a victim of home-made intrigue, the explanation will not carry sufficient weight to relieve her or her Ministers of responsibility. During the past twenty-five years, Turkey has received many warnings, both from within and without. Her treatment of subject races has been the subject of justifiable criticism, and the many attempts made by the Christian population in the Ottoman Empire to obtain relief from outside, should in themselves have been sufficient to show the Government that something was wrong, that is, if they really wanted to know. When the new regime was inaugurated, it was hoped, particularly in Great Britain and India, that the days of maladroit and inept Government had passed away. Several years, however, have elapsed since the deposition of Abul Hamid, and many observers declare that the latter end of things is worse than the first, while even those who stand by in the hope that the Turks will succeed in rehabilitating themselves, have been forced to the conclusion that the hope is not strong. When the recent crisis in Turkish political circles was ended, we were told that a Peace Mission was to be despatched to the Albanian province. Whether it was actuallly sent, what it has achieved, what are its methods, still have to be made plain: at the moment the only clear outstanding feature in the Near East is insurrection, and when it is remembered that Turkey is also in trouble in Africa, her position must appear bad indeed. Turkish progress and interests are most carefully followed in India, and while we have nothing but admiration for the manner in which our Moslem fellow-subjects are standing by their co-religionists in Europe, we feel that even they must soon realize how little hope there is of Turkey working out her own salvation.

THE PORTUGUESE ROYALISTS. Distracted Portugal is apparently to have a little rest. Repeated unsuccess has discouraged the Royalists, and for the time being their resources seem to be exhausted. The Royalist movement has been remarkable hitherto for the indomitable resolution and vigour of its leader, Captain Conceiro, and when at last he confesses himself despondent, it is evident that the Royalists generally recognise the weakness in their ranks, which has been so apparent to observers almost since the commencement of their movement. There is a deep note of despondence in the letter, which he is reported to have written to a countryman in Paris. He expresses acute disappointment and says that he has disbanded his followers and broken his sword, and he now means to go to London to give an account of his venture to King Manoel. But this time a less dramatic landing at Dover, we should imagine. How long the Royalist cessation from activity may last will presumably depend much upon his conference, should it take place. We take it that although the Royalist force has been disbanded, and Captain Conceiro has broken his sword, it does not follow that all efforts have been abandoned. In an emotional moment, the leader may have snapped his weapon, but he still may take up another. However, there must be much planning, and probably finding of funds before another campaign can be undertaken. The Portuguese Government will thus be given, we hope, a long rest which it thoroughly deserves. Without experience, it has battled bravely through none but adverse circumstances, and though its success has been but moderate, it has done more and lasted longer than even some friendly critics anticipated.

THE DOG PERIL. During the past few days several cases of dog-bite have been reported in our telegram columns, some of the victims being persons generally removed from such risks. On Saturday we reported a case which occurred in Bombay in which a little girl, while playing in the garden of her parent's house, was attacked and badly bitten. Last year, it may be remembered, several cases occurred in Bombay, one of which ended fatally. From time to time many official warnings have been published, dealing with the menace, and we think the time has come to repeat them. In the last case no blame appears to attach to any one in particular—it was purely a case of misadventure—but we think the police authorities should use every effort to destroy pariah dogs found in the streets. Owners of dogs should be requested to keep their animals under control, and to provide them with collars as marks of ownership. The matter is urgent from every point of view, and in our opinion, should be dealt with immediately.

TRIAL IN JAIL. The magisterial inquiry into the charges against the armed sanyasis who resisted and fired on the police recently in Sylhet is being conducted inside the jail in the Eastern Bengal town jail, because some of the accused are too ill to be taken to court. This is a most unusual practice, but not without precedent. Three or four years ago a similar case occurred in the Alipore central prison, at Calcutta. The accused in that case were two under-trial prisoners who murdered the informer, Gossain, in the great political conspiracy. The murder was committed in the most sensational circumstances inside the jail one morning, and within a few hours a magistrate sat, heard the evidence and committed the two accused for trial. They were afterwards convicted and hanged.

The P. and O. Co.'s s.s. "Socotra" arrived in London on the morning of 3rd inst.

The P. and O. Co.'s. s.s. "Caledonia" arrived at Plymouth on the morning of 3rd inst.

Prince Madhubha Saheb of Cutch will leave Bombay for Bhuj this evening from Grant Road Station by the Gujarat Mail.

NOTES FROM LONDON.

HOW THE INSURANCE ACT WORKS.

The Suffragette Menace.

[BY "ASIATICUS."]

LONDON, July 19.

This is the first week of the operation of the Insurance Act, and in common with a great many other people, I am still recalcitrant. The attitude of passive opposition is not, however, a very dignified or agreeable one. I do not feel in the least like one of the seven bishops. I feel rather like an obscure Nonconformist who has sought sudden notoriety by electing to go to gaol rather than pay the education rate. I feel as though I am in unholy alliance with those feminine agitators who glory in defying the law. I feel, in short, a little ashamed. One week of passive resistance, of which nobody in the world is aware but myself, makes me feel uncomfortable. It seems to connect one with people of unbalanced mind. It seems a little stupid. It is not worth the trouble. Defiance of the law, however one may dislike it, should be reserved for some really great issue. I do not think the Insurance Act is of sufficient moment to disturb the serenity of my constitutional habit of mind. Consequently, although many people of far greater prominence than I shall ever attain to are still declaring that they will never yield, I am inclined to think that I shall pay up and look as pleasant as I can. Whether I can so far control myself as to endure domiciliary visits from a health Inspector who will want to see whether I have paid my three-pence, remains to be seen.

This yielding to a disagreeable necessity must not be taken as an indication that the Insurance Act is overcoming hostility. On the contrary, it seems to become more unpopular every day. Its very first result was to throw large numbers of casual labourers out of work. I need not plunge into technical details, but the point seems to be that many employers will not give work to casual labourers unless they produce their card ready stamped on a Monday morning. The average casual labourer has very rarely got seven-pence, or even two-pence, on a Monday morning. Very many charwomen have completely lost their work. Mistresses say they will pay for their indoor servants, but they will not pay for charwomen. It is quite clear that the operation of the Act is going to prove extremely oppressive to all classes of casual labour. It hits hardest the very people it was chiefly meant to benefit, while in every grade of life it appears to have produced the utmost irritation.

NEW DIFFICULTIES.

There never was an Act which touched the whole population of these islands in so many different ways. Every day reveals new and unforeseen difficulties. Take, for instance, the working of a county court in a poor district. It is no uncommon thing for a judge to order a poor workman with a large family to pay only two shillings a month towards the liquidation of a debt for which he has been sued. The judge fixes the instalments at this low rate, because he thinks the debtor can afford no more. But a workman who is compelled to pay for both insurance and unemployment benefits will have to disburse a little over two shillings a month. What, then, becomes of county court instalments? Such cases have actually arisen this week, and the judges have suspended the liquidation of the debt. I could fill this letter with examples of the singular anomalies the Act has produced.

I think the extraordinary opposition shown to the Insurance Act is partly due to the muddled manner of its introduction. The bulk of the nation is enraged at being compelled to pay for benefits which at present remain problematical. No agreement has been reached by Mr. Lloyd George and the doctors. The British Medical Association meets at Liverpool to-day, but its decision will not be known before the mail closes. The Government have renewed the proposal that the doctors should try working under the Act as an experiment for a couple of years. If at the end of that time it is found that the rates offered are unfair to the profession, an effort will be made to revise them. That, at least, is the promise of the Government, but the doctors will be very innocent if they accept it. My medical friends tell me that the profession is "solid" now, but it is a very open question whether it would be "solid" two years hence. Again, where will the present Government be in two years time? Unless present indications are at fault, they will be swept to the winds. The doctors ought to make up their minds one way or the other now, and accept no interim period of trial. A rather odd feature of the situation is that the Labour press strenuously supports the contention of the doctors, and publishes almost tearful articles about the right of medical men to a 'living wage."

THE POSITION OF THE UNIONISTS.

I have said that in two years time the Liberal party will be swept to the winds, but the statement requires qualification. The great safety of the Liberals lies in the fact that the Unionists have no programme, except Tariff Reform. I do not believe that they will win the next election upon that single battle-cry. The original object of Tariff Reform, the great ideal which lay at the back of Mr. Chamberlain's proposal, was Imperial Unity. That great ideal has already been largely attained, not through Imperial Preference, but through the gradual realisation that the Dominions must draw closer to the mother country for purposes of joint defence. The next election will never be carried by propounding to the working man a scheme for food taxes. It may be right, it may be perfectly logical, it may be demonstrated in the most convincing manner by a multitude of Unionist orators, but assuredly it will spell defeat. I am not arguing for or against Tariff Reform; I am only estimating electioneering chances. The Unionist party has gone to pieces ever since it was stampeded by the extreme Tariff Reformers. I know no Unionist of eminence who will not confess in confidential moments that a grave blunder was made in appointing Mr. Bonar Law as leader of the party. He will never carry the country or even the party with him. He was a good fighter in the ranks, but nothing more. He can speak very well on Tariff Reform or on the Ulster question, but knows little beyond these matters. Assuredly the Unionist party was never in a more parlous state, whatever the Unionist press may say.

NATIONAL INDIFFERENCE.

These points find fresh emphasis in a remarkable article by Mr. Harold Cox in the new number of the Edinburgh Review. Mr. Cox further points out the extraordinary indifference of the nation to the proceedings of Parliament. He ascribes this partly to the growing feeling that party politics are thoroughly insincere, and partly to the excessive number of new measures which have been introduced. No one in England seems to care a straw about the Home Rule Bill, except that sometimes people wonder mildly whether Ulster will fight. They need not wonder, by the way; I am sure she will. The Welsh Disestablishment Bill has almost dropped out of sight. The great new Franchise Bill, which adds millions of voters to the register, is so unregarded that the bulk of the public seem hardly aware of its introduction. Mr. Cox rightly suggests that the country is weary of legislation, and needs rest. I verily believe that if the Unionist party at the next election went to the country and announced that if returned to power they would do nothing except vote supply, they would secure an enormous majority.

THE SUFFRAGETTES

I remember some years ago sitting in the Yacht Club with an eminent soldier who had just returned from England. He told me he had been staying at a country house, and that one of the guests was Mr. Balfour. In those days the Suffrage movement was still limited in extent, though "militant" tactics were just commencing. Mr. Balfour remarked one night at dinner that he believed the "militant" women would gradually proceed from outrage to outrage until some Minister was either murdered or blinded by vitriol. We are rapidly reaching the stage which Mr. Balfour foresaw. Assaults on Ministers are incessant, and they and their residences have to be guarded night and day.

Consider what has happened during the last week. On Saturday, at Kennington, Mr. Lloyd George was assaulted by a male sympathiser with the suffragettes. He was actually dragged to the ground, and they had a "rough and tumble" together. On the previous night, at 1 a. m., two women were discovered outside Mr. Harcourt's residence at Nuneham. They had housebreaking implements, paraffin and other inflammable material, and a hammer and some oil-cloth smeared with a sticky substance for the silent breaking of windows. They were discovered by a night watchman, who seized one of them. The other escaped and has not been traced. The woman who was arrested confessed that their intention was to set fire to the house.

The other day Mr. McKenna was seized at a public gathering and severely shaken by a suffragette. But the worst incidents happened in Dublin yesterday, when Mr. Asquith landed. A suffragette flung a heavy hatchet into the carriage in which Mr. and Mrs. Asquith were driving with Mr. Redmond. The hatchet cut Mr. Redmond rather badly over the eye, but fortunately missed the Premier. Mr. Asquith is to speak at the Dublin Theatre to-night. At the close of last night's performance two young women were seated in a box. They suddenly threw a chair soaked in paraffin, and set on fire, into the orchestra, the apparent intention being to throw it on the stage. They also fired the curtains in their box. In the confussion one woman escaped. The other, when arrested, confessed that they had come from England in order, if possible, to burn down the threatre. It is a merciful thing that so far these women have almost invariably proved to be wretched bunglers.

Mr. Asquith's departure from London had to be made, under circumstances which must have been extraordinarily humiliating for the Prime Minister of England. He had intended to start from Euston, but at the last moment the police requested him to change his route, because they had reason to believe that an outrage might be attempted at Euston which they would possibly be unable to prevent. Mr., Mrs. and Miss Violet Asquith were accordingly actually smuggled by the police to Paddington, where they took train to Wolverhampton. At Wolverhampton they alighted, and went the whole of the rest of the way to Holyhead by motor-car, in order to outwit the suffragettes. To such straits have we been driven in Merrie England.

From arson and the throwing of hatchets it is a very short step to the phial of vitroil, the revolver and the bomb. I can only say that a very ugly feeling is being aroused in this country, especially among the lower classes, by these repeated outrages and attempted outrages. It will not surprise anybody if a Minister loses his life at the hands of one of these furies. It will surprise me still less if the culprit meets with lynch law at the hands of the mob, regardless of her sex. That is a serious statement to make, but in no other way can I convey an impression of the savage indignation everywhere produced by the acts of these women. One newspaper says bluntly to-night that when one of these demented creatures succeeds in perpetrating a murder, she must not escape a hanging.

THE STATE OF TURKEY.

While I write a newspaper arrives containing the first startling announcement that a flotilla of Italian destroyers has again attacked and bombarded the entrance to the Dardanelles. It is difficult to see what useful object Italy hopes to attain by these futile attacks. As you are already aware, the Turkish Ministry has fallen this week, and Tewfic Pasha, now Turkish Ambassador in London, has consented to go to Constantinople and endeavour to form a new Cabinet. The overthrow of Turkish Ministries is monotonously frequent, but on this occasion there is a special meaning to be attached to the episode. It means, in effect, that the county is growing tired of the domination of the Committee of Union and Progress. Turkey is weary of the wasteful expenditure of the Committee, and of the growth of taxation. Where Abdul Hamid wasted thousands, the Committee has wasted tens of thousands. It is also believed that the country is growing tired of the war with Italy, and would like to make peace. The Committee will not consent to the conclusion of peace, because it is well aware that when terms are made with Italy its own overthrow will be the next step. The Turkish public (if such a thing really exists) blames the Committee for the loss of Tripoli. Large numbers of troops were withdrawn from Tripoli just before the war, and the enemies of the Committee say that the door was thus left open for the Italians to enter. Anything may happen in Turkey in the next few weeks, and I may add that the situation in Northern Persia is passing through some very curious phases just now.

INDIA'S NEW CAPITAL.

ARCHITECTS' DIFFICULT TASK.

Speech by Secretary of State.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.

Lord Crewe, in a speech at the Town-Planning School at the Hampstead garden suburb, said he was particularly interested in town-planning, being partly responsible for the creation of the new Delhi. It would not be an easy task for the architects to combine the old Delhi with the new in the manner necessary, if a fully satisfactory result was to be achieved.

He hoped that the best results would accrue from the help of experts, for advantage ought to be taken of the absolutely unique chance, which had fallen to the Government of India, in the formation of a new British capital.

THE TURKISH CRISIS.

Severe Measures against Officers Expected.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 4.

The situation here is disquieting. The Cabinet is sitting late, and it is believed that it has decided to act vigorously and arrest a number of officers.

INDIAN COMMISSION.

Appointment of the Labour Leader.

REMARKABLE OUTBURST.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.

The Times publishes prominently a letter signed "Imperialist," drawing attention to remarks made by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in the discussion on the Indian Budget, about persons, who went to India and got sun-baked, and were not good for anything, although they thought they knew everything. They reproduced in the end all the vices of the Western and Oriental worlds, and showed very few of the virtues of either.

"Imperialist" says these remarks applied to His Majesty's public servants in India, and asks whether Mr. MacDonald is a proper person to hold a place on the Indian Commission.

LATER.

The Daily Chronicle strongly resents what it describes as the unwarrantable attack on Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in the Times, especially the suggestion that his appointment to the Indian Commission be reconsidered.

The paper criticises "Imperialist's" anonymity, and says it is gross unfairness to detach a single sentence from a long and able speech. It says that Mr. MacDonald did not cover the whole Civil Service in the sentence quoted, but anyhow Mr. MacDonald has closely studied perplexing problems in India, and is fully entitled to express his opinions. The paper concludes that the public at large certainly regards the inclusion of a Labour member both as justified and necessary.

[The Earl of Liverpool is 42 years of age and is Controller of H. M's. Household. He has had a military career and is a Major in the 6th Batt., Rifle Brigade. He saw war service in South Africa.]

OUR WEAKENED HOLD.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 3.

The Pioneer's London correspondent writes—

The Morning Post discussing Mr. Montagu's speech, in introducing the Indian Budget in the House of Commons on Tuesday, asks whether Government intends by the Royal Commission on the Indian Public Services to force more Indians into the Civil Service at the expense of the British contingent. If so, the Morning Post proceeds, it means the gradual weakening of our hold on India until the time ripens for the destruction of our Indian Empire. We are at present working on minimum strength, holding only such key positions as are absolutely essential to the integrity of the British administration. If these are abandoned, our rule will be weakened and the recruiting of the right type of Englishmen discouraged.

The paper criticises the composition of the Commission, and says Mr. Ramsay MacDonold's appointment is unfair to the Civil Service. It hints at a "flanking movement" in the direction of provincial autonomy.

AMERICAN LAND POLICY.

Resolution Excluding Foreign Corporations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.

The Senate has adopted a resolution, moved by Senator Lodge, demanding the exclusion of foreign corporations from the acquisition of territory in America.

The debate, which was heated, was held within closed doors owing to the delicacy of the diplomatic questions involved.

WASHINGTON, August 2.

The resolution passed by the Senate regarding the acquisition of territory in America, was the outcome of an investigation by the Foreign Relations Committee into the unfounded report that Japan had, through a trading corporation, secured from Mexico a concession of Magdalena Harbour.

Senator Lodge, in the course of the debate, described the resolution as an expansion of the Monroe doctrine. He cited the British protest in connection with Agadir as a precedent. The resolution was not aimed at Japan or Germany, but was in harmony with the American theory of national conduct.

NEW YORK, August 3.

There is a concensus of opinion that the Lodge resolution, prohibiting foreign corporations from acquiring territory in America, is both unnecessary and unwarranted, and that the Monroe doctrine does not need amendment or extension.

The Herald describes the resolution as mere brag and bluster.

THE SUGAR CONVENTION.

Forecasted Effect of British Withdrawal.

CONTINENTAL SENSATION.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GREENOCK, Aug. 2.

The sugar industry is described as thrown into consternation by the Government decision. Refiners say it will mean ruin. The country will be swamped by bounty-fed sugar. Confectioners are generally complaisant, expecting a reduction in the price of sugar.

LONDON, August 3.

Britain's withdrawal from the Sugar Convention has caused a considerable sensation on the Continent. In Germany and Austria, the opinion is that the whole Convention is doomed. Newspapers say that it is almost certain that Russia will not adhere to the international treaties, but will also withdraw.

Mincing Lane characterises the withdrawal as a political move, which will have little effect in the immediate future on the sugar industry, unless the whole Convention is broken up.

The prospects regarding crops are exceptionally good, foreshadowing a fall in prices. It is pointed out that this will be a cause of cheap sugar, not the withdrawal from the Convention.

LATER.

Greenock and Liverpool sugar refiners have decided to make immediate representations to the Government, in connection with the withdrawal from the Sugar Convention.

GARNETT-ORME WILL CASE.

Miss Stephens Examined as to her Career.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MUSSOORIE, August 4.

In the Garnett Orme will case yesterday, the defendant closed his case.

Miss Mount Stephens, to rebut the evidence, adduced by the defendant, went into the witness box on her own behalf and said.—

"To the best of my belief my father is a retired naval officer. I cannot say what his rank was when he retired, as I commenced living with my parents when I was twelve. Before that I lived with my grandmother. I cannot say whether he was a commissioned or non-commissioned officer. I first met Miss Garnett Orme at Darjeeling at the house of Mr. Slacke, Acting Lieutenant-Governor. I was then governess to Mrs. Luson. At that first visit, she told me she had seen the spirit of Jack Grant in London.

The witness was then cross-examined, and taken in detail into her career from 1909, with a view to showing that in most of the households, where she had been employed, articles of jewllery, etc, had been missed and that she had been dismissed, She had stayed with Mrs. Dallas at Lahore as a friend. She had asked to see Mrs. Dallas' rings. She had never heard before that Mrs. Dallas had missed a ruby and diamond ring, and that notes to the value of one thousand rupees were lost. Two hundred notes were not recovered. She had never heard of their being paid in at Messrs. Whiteaway's at Calcutta. She knew nothing about it. About a lace transaction with the Travancore Convent, she said she had written for the laces in question under the assumed name of Stevenson.

She continued: At Jhansi a gold watch was recovered from me, which I had bought at Meerut in 1910 from a pedlar. I have heard that Mrs. Munro, who was staying at the same place at that time, lost a watch then and a ruby and diamond ring was found with me. Miss Garnett Orme gave me that ring, when I visited her in January, 1910. On January, 13th, I was questioned by the Police about that ring. I am aware that in January, 1910, Miss Garnett Orme lost a ruby and diamond ring. I did endeavour to see in the crystal, where the ring would be found, but saw nothing. The ring that was lost was discovered. I am aware that it was not amongst Miss Garnett Orme's effects at the time of her death. I have no information on the subject.

The case is proceeding.

MUSSOORIE, August 4.

In the Orme will case, the cross-examination of Miss Mount Stephens continued. She said she wrote to Mr. Hunter Garnett Orme asking for money as Miss Garnett Orme was stinting herself of necessaries. She wrote this letter at Miss Garnett Orme's dictation. It was not in consequence of the letter written to Mr. Hunter Garnett Orme that £200 was wired by the family. It was on writing to the sister, Lucy Garnett Orme, that the money was wired. Several friends and myself had heard about Miss Garnett Orme's heart attacks. All the witnesses who said they had never heard about the heart attacks were perjuring themselves through jealousy of witness. Miss Stephens could not name a single doctor, who attended Miss Orme for the heart attacks. Between May and September she received in the way of gifts between five and six thousand rupees from Miss Garnett Orme. She refused a salary, because she thought it would put an end to their friendship. The salary she received from Mrs. Mellor was fifty rupees a month. The presents she received were equivalent to a salary of Rs. 1,200 per month. She was not aware till the 27th of September, 1911, that the estate was really worth £120,000 and not £12,000.

A letter dated the 24th of June, 1911, was shown to the witness. The witness said this was a letter written by her. She there wrote, as she understands that a lot of money had accumulated on the £ 12,000 and shares had gone up considerably. She had no other explanation but that. She meant to write £120,000, but wrote £ 12,000 by mistake.

After a few questions, the witness who had been showing signs of distress fainted in the witness-box. Her cross-examination was not nearly concluded. As it did not appear likely that she would be in a fit state of health to proceed with the case immediately, the 16th of September has been fixed for her further cross-examination.

ELECTRICITY FOR KABUL.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 4.

News from Kabul is to the effect that sanction has been given by the Amir to a scheme for generating electricity at Jabal Siraj, the north-east of the capital. It is really to be effective this time. The idea is to provide electric power for the arsenals and workshops at Kabul. Incidentally light will be available for the Amir's palaces and the city generally. The rifle, gun and ammunition factories, not to mention the mint, have machinery which can be run by electricity, and great saving should be effected when the Jabal Shiraj installation is in full working order.

FIGHTING AT LHASSA.

Tibetans Cause the City to be Flooded.

EXCITING INCIDENTS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KALIMPONG, August 3.

The Chinese renegade major, who is now helping the Tibetans against his countrymen, seems to be turning the fortunes of war in favour of the Tibetans. He advised the removal of a weir above the city, with the result that the city was flooded and the surrounding plain converted into a lake. The houses held by the Chinese had to be vacated. the Dalai Lama's brother and family were rescued unknown to the Chinese on the night, when the flood made it possible to float hide-boats alongside the house. According to my informant, intensely exciting incidents were enacted during the first few days of the flood.

The inhabitants of the upper and lower Chumbi Valley have been ordered by the Tibetan Government to supply men and means for the Lhassa campaign. The upper valley men are responding, but the lower valley people are still debating matters. There is a rumour afloat that a force of 1,500 Chinese arrived at Lharigo twelve marches from Lhassa. If not opposed effectively, these troops should now be near the capital. It appears that heavy rain has been falling in Lhassa, and that this, along with the flood, has spoiled much Tibetan gunpowder.

PORT OF KARACHI.

Proposed Extension of Wharfage.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

KARACHI, August 3.

It is understood that the Chairman of the Karachi Port Trust, at present on furlough at Home, has been authorized by the Board to prepare a draft contract with a firm of harbour engineers in England, for the doubling of the wharf accommodation for ocean steamers in Karachi. This duplication of the existing harbour facilities means the construction on the west side of the main channel of another line of wharves, opposite to the present Keamari wharves. With the completion of the west wharfage scheme, Karachi will be able to deal with all the additional traffic arising from extensions of irrigation in Sind and the Punjab.

"I am unable to obtain any comfirmation of this in Madras, but the latest season report received from the Kistna District shows that the water level in the river was 14ft. 2in. above the anicut, and this is abnormal; so that floods are not unlikely."

THE IMPERIAL COUNCIL.

Text of Four Government Bills.

DIVORCE LAW.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, Aug. 3.

To-day's issue of the "Gazette of India" publishes the text of four Government Bills, which will be introduced in the Council during the September Session.

The Presidency Small Cause Courts Bill provides that the power of the Small Cause Court, which is now limited to cases in which the annual value at rack-rent does not exceed Rs. 1,000, will be raised to Rs. 2,000 and section 41 will be amended accordingly. The High Courts concerned approve of the proposed amendment.

The Extradition Bill provides under section 7 of the Indian Extradition Act, 1903, (Act 15 of 1903): "A District Magistrate is empowered to receive and execute warrants issued by Political Agents in certain cases." Doubts have been expressed as to whether under this section there is provision for the execution of such warrants in Presidency towns. In order to remove these doubts, and to make definite provision for such cases, it is proposed to empower the Chief Presidency Magistrate to execute warrants in Presidency towns.

The Local Authorities Loans Bill is only a formal measure. The Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act, 1897, (Act 12 of 1897) enables local authorities to borrow money for certain purposes with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council. The Government of India consider the power of sanctioning such loans may safely be delegated to local Governments. This proposal was made by the Decentralization Commission. The proposed delegation is to be effected by an amendment of Section 2, sub-section (1) of the Act. It is also proposed to amend Section 3 so as to enable the Government of India to issue general or special orders subject to which local Governments may sanction the borrowing of money under Section 2, sub-section (1) without previous reference to the Government of India. The amendment of Section 4 is purely a consequential amendment.

The statement of objects and reason states that the South Indian Mission Association submitted a memorial, praying that the provision of the Indian Divorce Act, 1869, (Act 4 of 1869) might be declared to be applicable to the marriages of Christian converts solemnized by non-Christian rites before their conversion, provided that the cases for divorce had arisen subsequent to conversion. The object of this memorial was to avoid the decision of the Madras High Court in Thapita Peter vs. Thapita Lakshmi, I. L. R. 17, Madras, 235, which relying on Section 7 of the Act, held that the marriages contemplated by it were those founded on the Christian principle of the union of one man with one woman to the exclusion of all others, and consequently that it did not apply to Hindu or non-menogamous marriages. The Calcutta High Court, however, in Gobardhan Das vs. Jasadamoni Dassi, I. L. R., 18, Calcutta, 252, affirmed the contrary view in a precisely similar case, and granted the desired relief on the ground that a person professing Christianity at the time of presenting his petition was entitled to relief under the Act. In view of the conflict between the two decisions it is thought desirable that the law on the point should be made clear and it is accordingly proposed to amend Section 7 of the Act so as to make it applicable to Christian converts provided that both parties are Christians at the time of the occurrence of the facts, on which the claim to relief is founded.

RUSSO-JAPANESE AGREEMENT.

The French Fetes.

GERMAN AIRSHIP FAILURE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, July 20.

An important development in Far Eastern affairs is foreshadowed by the journey of Prince Katsura, ex-Premier of Japan, to St. Petersburg. Russia and Japan are reported to be on the eve of concluding another agreement involving a joint policy with regard to Manchuria and Mongolia, Japan's predominant position in Manchuria being acknowledged, whilst Russia is to be allowed a free hand in Mongolia. "The vital economic and political interests of Russia and Japan are closely bound together, and a complete union is necessary to enable them to continue prosperous. This, gentlemen, is no dream, but a fact." These words are taken in Paris to mean nothing less than that a Russo-Japanese alliance is in prospect, necessitated by the complete transformation now proceeding in China. The successful accomplishment of the work of Chinese regeneration can scarcely be hoped for without the friendly assistance of all the Great Powers, and it presents problems of serious moment to nations, like Russia and Japan, already embarked on a line of active policy in the Far East. A striking proof of this was afforded lately in the course of the negotiations for the Chinese Loan, when the Cabinets of St. Petersburg and Tokio agreed on the express condition of special safeguards for their interests in North China. By the agreements made in 1907 and 1910 the two Powers virtually arranged a partition of Manchuria, but there remains Mongolia, embracing the great caravan route, and eventually the shortest railway cut to Peking, now practically under Russian protection, which the Mongols seem to prefer to the new Chinese Republican regime. Russia, however, is under no illusions, and realises that in order to consolidate her position in Mongolia she will be compelled to make a bargain with Japan, and Prince Katsura's work seems to imply that terms are already sketched out, and that the journey to St. Petersburg is intended to develop and ratify an agreement. Of course, it does not follow that a general treaty is in contemplation, and diplomatic circles seem inclined to believe that the cryptic utterances of Irkutsk refer solely to the Kalgan-Urga-Peking Railway and the future of Mongolia, thus cementing the structure of Russo-Japanese friendship, the foundations of which were laid in the Treaty of Portsmouth, and whose advance was marked by the various arrangements of 1907 and 1910. At the same time, Japan will certainly stipulate for counter-advantages which will bring her into closer touch with Russia.

It seems to be thought in Paris—and one writer says as much—that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance has lost much of its value in the eyes of Japan since the Pacific was excluded from the sphere of its operation, and that all the recent acts of both Russia and Japan point to the conclusion that the two nations have determined to act in concert for the settlement of all problems in the Far East in a manner consonant with their joint interests.

This, if not an alliance in theory is one in practice, which is sometimes even more effective and fruitful than when signed on parchment. It is suggested that the object of Prince Katsura's visit is to obtain liberty for Japan in South Manchuria and a free hand for Russia in the eastern provinces of China, particularly in the direction of Turkestan, with an engagement on the part of Japan to support Russia in case of attack, and a general entente upon a policy in view of the future development of the Celestial Empire, especially Mongolia. The Japanese Embassy in Paris, however, declares that the journey of Prince Katsura is purely one of pleasure to revisit capitals he formerly knew when military attache in Berlin. It is, however, evident that if Prince Katsura is charged with a secret mission in Europe the Japanese Embassies in Paris and elsewhere would be justified in giving a diplomatic version of the object of his persence, and though I repeat the above as offered by the Paris representative, it is scarcely likely to stem the flow of comment and conjecture let loose by the speech at Irkutsk.

TURKISH PREMIERSHIP.

An irade has been issued appointing Tewfik Pasha, Turkish Ambassador in London, as Grand Vizir. The selection has caused a favourable impression. Tewfik Pasha is a man with a record of neutrality and a reputation for moderation and sober judgment. It is stated on the best authority that he will be given a free hand in the formation of a Cabinet, and consequently it is anticipated that the new Minister of War will be Nazim Pasha, who is prepared to co-operate with Tewfik Pasha. In such an eventuality the situation should enter upon a period of calm. It must not be forgotten that the Committee of Union and Progress still possesses a powerful organisation, as well as numerous supporters in the army, although the latter are at present in the minority. Nevertheless, an attempt to suppress the organisation would probably meet with resistance, and all patriotic Turks are desirous of avoiding disturbances. It is thus hoped that the formation of a neutral Cabinet, coupled with the retirement of the Young Turk leaders Talaat, Javid, and Haji Adil will permit of the co-operation of all parties. The resignation of the Cabinet of Said Pasha was due largely to its inability to accept the conditions laid down by Mahmud Mukhtar Pasha as essential to his acceptance of the portfolio of War. His principal demand, it is understood, was the withdrawal of all troops from Albania and the inauguration of a policy of trust. This, the Cabinet Council held on Wednesday, was unable to agree to, and the Minister of Marine insisted on resigning. It has been decided to dispatch to Albania a peace mission, composed of three prominent Albanians who are senators. They will endeavour to persuade the rebels to suspend hostilities, given them assurances of a satisfactory settlement of their grievances. According to the Exchange Telegraph Company, Said Pasha, the retiring Premier, has been offered Tewfik Pasha's present post of Ambassador in London. The same agency states that Tewfik Pasha has refused, on what are termed in diplomatic circles as "sound reasons," to form a Cabinet.

MARTIAL SPIRIT OF FRANCE.

Everything combined this year to give the greatest possible brilliancy to the National Fete, commemorative of the fall of the Bastille on the 14th July. Firstly, as the date falls on a Sunday, the following Monday becomes fete day, making practically three consecutive holidays. Secondly, there were an exceptional number of "clous" at the review, such as the presence of the Bey of Tunis, Queen Ranavalano of Madagascar, the Moorish dignitaries, the Rumanian Ædiles, the Aeronautic Corps, and the regiments dressed in new types of uniform. Last but not least there was the glorious weather, the finishing touch to the national festival.

Paris began to deck itself in flags on Friday and Saturday, and gave iteslf up to street rejoicings. All the usual open bandstands were erected, and calico streamers announced "Dancing," and in spite of the equatorial heat there was no doubt about it that the Parisians did dance—waltzes, polkas, mazurkas all the afternoon and, as the fun waxed fiercer, "cakewalks," "tangos," and "grizzly bear" steps such as were scarcely dreamed of by their inventors. The provincial element was very strong, as was indicated by the strange coifs of the women and the queer speech of the men, for whilst half the population of Paris escaped into the country double that number of excursionists came in by cheap trains. Towards twelve o'clock even the delights of the dance yielded to the determination to secure places for the grand review at Longchamp, and a colossal and heterogeneous exodus began under a cloudless sky. Nothing afforded better proof of how nearly the Frenchman loves a soldier than the manner in which the merrymakers stoically limited their libations, shut their ears to the enticing scrape of the violins, and trudged sturdily forth from every extremity of the great city for a night walk of eight or nine miles to the review ground. Towards dawn a slight breeze stirred, to the gratitude of all, and the sun broke over a mighty multitude encircling the Longchamp racecourse.

Meanwhile the stands, for which forty thousand tickets had been issued, were rapidly filled by an enormous throng of officials and their friends, and a large proportion of ladies. The foreign military attaches, always a feature at these shows, were also on the ground. At half-past seven President

Fallieres left the Elysee with the Bey of Tunis in his carriage, and the arrival of the Presidential party at the grand stand was greeted with prolonged cheering. Whilst the troops took up their positions in three dense lines, two of infantry and one of cavalry and artillery, the battalion of St. Cyr and a deputation of the new Aeronautic Corps advanced, and, to the accompaniment of trumpets and drums, President Fallieres presented Colonel Voyer with new colours for the aviation regiment. This was the signal for a prodigious cheer which rolled round the whole of the huge plain, testifying to the popularity of the valiant aviators with the public. As the colours were taken over a thousand white pigeons were suddenly let loose by the engineers, producing a singularly pleasing symbolical effect.

More fanfares accompanied the bestowal of decorations on a number of general staff officers, and the enthusiasm was boundless as the President embraced each stalwart recipient. After President Falliers had driven along the fronts of the three lines, saluting the colours and being saluted, the march past began, headed by the reserve officers who had just completed a long distance ride on the same horses then used. They were followed by the cadets from Versailles and St. Cyr, the Republican Guard, the Paris fire brigades, the engineers, the Telegraph Corps, and the aeronauts with their new flag. A bicycle squad, carrying their machines on their backs, and a pontoon division, with boats in pieces, completed the accessory branches of the Service.

INSOLENT FRENCH SOCIALIST.

The incorrigible M. Herve, editor of "La Guerre Sociale," who, after having seen twenty-six months in prison, and having still four years and three months longer to serve, was pardoned on Wednesday together with six other similar Anarchical apostles of Socialism at the instigation of M. Briand, Minister of Justice, has signalized his release in a characteristic manner. In the old days M. Briand and M. Herve were sworn allies, but the Minister of Justice, though still professing Socialistic doctrines, has altogether abandoned the extremist theories he once held. M. Herve,on the contrary, though the mildest-mannered man who ever preached murder, and a gentle, jovial companion in private life, has developed into a most violent preacher of the gospel of revolt against all constituted authority, and he celebrated the gracious measure of clemency by which he benefited in the following letter, addressed immediately on leaving the Conciergere to M. Poincare, the Premier, and M. Briand :—

"Bastille de la Conciergerie, July 17.

"To the Prime Minister and to the Minister of Justice,—Before leaving the cell in which you and your predecessors and your so-called Republican Parliament had the impudence and imbecility to imprison me in the twentieth century for period of twenty-six months on account of a newspaper article, with the complicity of the so-called Republican Press, I seek for words in which to thank you fittingly for your act of grace. I can only find one word—that of Cambronne! I address it to you in token of my gratitude.

(Sd.) "GUSTAV HERVE."

The special number of "La Guerre Sociale," in which this letter is published, contains also two articles filled with vituperation, and a rough engraving representing various "crimes" against Socialist ideas with the heading "The fact of my pardon will not alter the fact of Liabeuf's execution having been murder, the conquest of Morocco an act of brigandage, and Lepine." (Prefect of Police) a public danger.

This open defiance of the law is distinctly offered as a challenge to renewed arrest and imprisonment, but it seems to be considered doubtful whether the Government will accept the challenge. M. Herves' terms of imprisonment were generally deemed a somewhat severe punishment, and from a spirit of solidarity most of the Press took up the cudgels in defence of a brother journalist condemned for, perhaps, too brutal an expression of opinions which the news papers themselves combated, and in defence of the exercise of journalistic liberties jealously watched by every member of the profession; irrespective of particular shades of politics. There is, however, a peculiar significance attached to the pardon which must be far from agreeable to the beneficiary. On his way from the Conciergerie to his office M. Herve passed through streets still flagged and figuratively reflecting the afterglow of the magnificent triumph of national military enthusiasm witnessed at Longchamp by the whole population of Paris.

CHURLISH POSTAL EMPLOYEES.

Another illustration of the orthodox Socialist frame of mind is afforded by the attitude of the postal employees, who met in congress last week and passed a resolution against M. Chaumet, the Postmaster-General, couched in most insulting terms, implying that the statements made by him at the recent banquet were due to free indulgence in wine, wherefore "the congress allows M. Chaumet the benefit of extenuating circumstances." It is difficult to find a parallel to such insolence on the part of employees towards their chief, and a chief, too, who has invariably shown extreme consideration for their grievances, and who only a few weeks ago extorted a credit of £250,000 for improving the situation of this very category of employees; and altogether the Chamber voted £1,200,000 for an increase of the salaries of postal servants. On M. Chaumet's asking if the committee of the syndicate which called the congress held itself responsible for the offensive resolution above quoted, the whole syndicate replied that every one of them personally and corporatively upheld the motion.

Such an example shows to what a lamentable extent Socialism corrupts the untutored working classes, leading to a complete ignoring of all the principles of administrative hierarchy and discipline. There is always some danger of an act of clemency like the pardon of M. Harve being construed as a sign of weakness, but in the present instance there can scarcely be any risk of misconception, and M. Herve at liberty is probably looked upon by the Government as less objectionable and less a subject of reproach to themselves or an object of admiration to his comrades than when a prisoner in the Conciergerie and a pretended martyr to his convictions.

GERMAN AIRSHIP FAILURE.

Starting from Hamburg at midnight on Friday, the Zeppelin airship Viktoria Luise which, it is understood, is to be taken over by either the Marine or the War Ministry, carried out what is described as a nocturnal reconnaissance over the sea and along the coast. Among the passengers were a couple of navel officers and an official from Admiral von Tirpitz's Department. Though the night was clear there was no moon, and the airship, dispensing with a search-light, steered exclusively by compass and stars. The course followed was across the land to Kiel, and thence northwards to the neighbourhood of Sonderburg, where the little belt was traversed to the coast of the Danish island of Arro. From here a south-easterly direction was taken, which brought the vessel to the Mecklenburg coast, not far from Wismar. The airship returned to Hamburg at a quarter to ten, having covered a distance of upwards of 300 miles, of which two-fifths lay over the sea. The huge non-rigid airship, built on speculation by the engineering firm of Siemens-Schuckert, of Berlin, has, according to a report in the Press, been recognised to be a failure, and is to be broken up. Her constructors had great faith in their design, and erected a huge revolving shed for the vessel's accommodation. The War Office took a great interest in the enterprise, and at one time seemed on the point of purchasing the airship. Its first trial trips proved, however, that it was deficient in speed, and difficult to steer. To remedy these defects the vessel was subjected to a long and expensive process of reconstruction, but this appears to have been unavailing, for no purchaser has been found. A characteristic feature of the Siemens-Schuckert type is that three cars are attached to a long strip of cloth sewn on to the gas enveloped and extending along almost its entire length.

ALLAHABAD UNIVERSITY.

Sir John Hewett Opens Senate Hall.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 4.

Sir John Hewett opened the Allahabad University Senate Hall last evening, in the presence of a large and distinguished gathering.

Dr. Sunder Lall, Vice-Chancellor, in requesting his Honour to declare the hall open, gave a history of the work and of the growth of the University.

The Lieutenant-Governor, in his address, gave a brief educational retrospect, and impressed on the University's attention the neglect of the vernaculars in high school and collegiate education. His Honour said the local Government had recently occasion to get outside help to translate the Legislative Council proceedings for the vernacular Gazettes. A number of educated men sent specimens, almost all of which required extensive revision before they could be published. In connection with the scope of the University, his Honour said that he had asked the Government of India to sanction the proposal to affiliate the Agricultural College to the University.

Reference was also made to the hostel system, which his Honour said was a peculiarly satisfactory feature of University life in the United Provinces. In this connection he praised the missionaries, in giving themselves up so whole-heartedly to promoting the welfare of the student community and to the moulding of character.

Sir John Hewett dealt with the subject of teaching universities, and said that a start had been made by the establishment of the University Law College. In connection with the recurring grant of Rs. 45,000, and the non-recurring grant of three lakhs of rupees, made by the Government of India, his Honour said that a proposal had been made by the Syndicate for three University chairs for Indian History, Economics and Philology. His Honour was disappointed that the Senate did not recommend a science like biology for one of the chairs. His Honour also regretted that there did not exist in the Provinces any provincial Historical and Archæological Society.

Turning to the subject of the building itself his Honour said that the Senate House had cost five lakhs of rupees and the work did credit to the engineers, Rao Bahadur B. B. Chakravarti, who was in direct charge, Mr. Chertel, Superintending Engineer, and its designer, Sir Swinton Jacob. In conclusion, his Honour declared the Senate Hall open, and hoped that the spirit of the Allahabad University, which dwelt within it, would ever remain worthy of its magnificent abode, and of its high destiny.

Sir John Hewett then left the Hall, and planted a symbolic banyan tree.

The Vice-Chancellor was "At Home" after the ceremony.

The building is a magnificent pile built in the Saracenic style with a very spacious Senate Hall, and other commodious rooms.

The building of the University library will shortly be preceeded with.

Sir John and Lady Hewett left for Benares this morning.

PRESENTATION OF MEDALS.

Interesting Ceremony at Colaba.

After the morning service, yesterday, at the Afghan Memorial Church, Colaba, Major General G. F. Gorringe, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., performed a interesting ceremony, presenting Indian Durbar Medals, Good Conduct and Volunteer Long Service medals.

Immediately after the service, the British troops of the Garrison assembled on the parade ground adjoining the church.

Major-General Gorringe was accompanied by Lt.-Col. Kirby, Major Dobbs, Major Cummins and Captain Maclean. There was a large number of European and Indian spectators on the ground.

Major-General Gorringe, in addressing the troops and the recipients of the medals, said that every recipient ought to be proud of the medal, with which he was to be decorated. The Durbar Medals had been issued for the commemoration of a unique event in the history of British India. The Good Conduct and Long Service Medals were to be presented to men of the regulars and Volunteers in recognition of their good work, and faithful and long service. In doing so he was anxious to remind them that the Volunteers were a unit in the national defence of the Empire, both at Home, in the Colonies and in India. When Napolean threatened the invasion of England and was preparing to cross the Channel, every man in England volunteered his services for the defence of the country. It was this determined front and national unity that made Napolean hesitate and give up his intention.

Major-General Gorringe then presented the medals. The following is the list of those who received the medals :—

SPORTING NEWS.

MONSOON RACES AT POONA AND CALCUTTA.

Successful Objections against Malmsey and Reminder.

HOW THE NEW TOTALISATORS WERE RECEIVED.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, Aug. 3.

The opening day of the Poona meeting, although held under somewhat gloomy climatic conditions, was interesting and on at least two occasions a little more than surprising. The course, stands, and lawns bore direct evidence of having been brought to that perfection, expected by the committee of the Western India Turf Club.

The attendance was not great, but of sufficient strength to warrant the statement that it was representative of an opening day at Poona. Most of the habitues of Bombay racing were present and the lawn was also peopled by a considerable number of the fair sex, who are to be congratulated on having had the temerity to adorn themselves in such pretty and fascinating frocks, considering the unsettled temper of our Rain God. He, although threatening, was merciful and with the exception of a couple of very slight showers, allowed the afternoon to be spent in a pleasant and comfortable manner.

The racing was moderate, well backed and strongly fancied horses winning most of the events, the one real upset of the day being the unexpected win of Major J. G. Greig's Castaway, ridden by Capt. Fell in the Subalterns' Plate. The rider of the winner returned to scale under quite a round of applause which was not more than he deserved for his strenuous finish the more so as what betting there was pointed out Tofic Pasha as something more than a certainty.

A jarring note in the afternoon's sport was the three objections, two going to one horse, Malmsey, to wit, who, after winning handsomely from Bachelor's Knot, was objected to for carrying wrong weight. This objection was, however, overruled and backers of the favourite were enabled to cash the tolalizator tickets. This collection came to a sudden (although temperory) stop by a second objection of carrying incorrect weight at a mofussil meeting. The second objection necessitated wiring to Calcutta for confirming particulars, upon receipt of which the race and stakes were given to Batchelor's Knot, punters of Malmsey, however, receiving returns of the totalizator in full.

The temporary suspension of payment in this race, and the long dreary wait owing to the objection in the last race, should surely cause the totalizator rules to be slightly amended. The delay was particularly irritating in the last race as owing to the long conference between the stewards.backers of Reminder, or Tenebruse, from Bombay, stood between the devil and the deep sea—either to wait on the chance of collecting their winnings and losing the special trains, or catching the trains with the quite possible chance of not being allowed to collect their winnings.

It certainly should be made quite clear that when objections cannot be settled fifteen minutes after the last race, all punters, holding winning tickets, should be able either to receive their winnings by post or collect the same at the following meeting. The managers of the concern did not seem quite clear on the point, as rule eight in the official programme can be read in different ways. The writer elected to leave his chance of collecting to the ruling of the stewards, and just managed to catch the race train.

They bring us to the really interesting item of the day, the running of an important day's racing without the assistance of our friends or enemies (as the case may be) the bookmakers. No shouting of odds or wild rushes to get on the favourite only subsequently to discover it is not the favourite but three or four times removed. In place of the noise, dust and turmoil of the open betting ring a quiet unostentations structure, calmly registering the units on the many small dials as the numerous punters pass through the long narrow apertures their ten, fifty or hundred-rupee notes.

The win totalizator is cleverly built so that the wealthy plutocrats, wishing to bet, may do so with a certain measure of secrecy that his exact intentions and doings will not be of world-wide publicity.

Judging, however, from the returns given below, the big men abstained from granting their patronage at this meeting, and contended themselves by watching the noble army of ten-rupee punters make their investment. This may have been from pique, a desire to bring the instrument into ridicule, or a wish carefully to follow the working, investments, and actual returns before entrusting their own money.

Whatever the reason, the fact remains that in no single race was the amount over Rs. 7,370, this being in the last race with a field of fifteen runners. This amount would surely be the bet on at least one horse at other times, or else the so-called heavy plunging of the Bombay Presidency race-goers, so much written and talked above must be taken "cum grano salis".

Taking the number of people present, the average bet per head would have worked out at about Rs. 2, which is too bad for Bombay and Poona, even in this depressing period of the year.

It is, of course, early to consider the success or non-success of the new betting methods. They are proved to be all that is required for good racing, coupled with huge attendances on the Continent and in Australia, and no doubt will attain the same popularity in India if given a fair trial.

This method of betting is to be in vogue at Bombay and Poona for this season, and one can only hope the bigger sportsmen will accept the inevitable for the time being, back their horses and fancies in the same manner they have hitherto done, and enable the machines to prove their utility for fair straightforward betting odds. One thing can certainly be said in favour, that is, even given smaller winnings, "Black Monday" is banished for a time and more smiling faces are about than would have been the case under the old regime; and that dreadful eyesore, the posted list, will no longer be in evidence for the rising generation to gaze at with awe and amazement.

The following shows the exact amounts taken by both win and place totalizators with the profits made by the W. I. T. C.

FOOTBALL IN BOMBAY.

Byculla Institute Win a Dull Game.

There was another rather uninteresting match between two teams at the lower end of the League table at the Cooperage on Saturday. The commencement was not quite so dull as the later stages, but a deterioration soon set in and on the whole it was not a game, which excited any enthusiasm amongst its spectators. This was especially a pity on a Saturday afternoon, when as usual there was a good crowd. The contesting teams were the Byculla Mechanics' Institute and the Y. M. C. A. The latter occasionally did some distinctly good forward work, but their play before goal was almost invariably weak and undecided. Byculla, on the other hand, were given at least two chances, mainly by faults of the Y. M. C. A. defence, but failed to use either of them. There was thus no scoring for a long time, but towards the end of the first half, MacDermott put on a goal for the Y. M. C. A. after a general melee in the goal-mouth.

In the second half the efforts of the teams were made more difficult by rain. The Mechanics on a heavy sodden ground proved that they could play better. Peel soon equalised, and later during a period when Byculla had nearly all the game Ridley headed a creditable goal. Final score :—

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

THE HIGH COURT.

Burma Trading Company's Shares.

Mr. Justice Davar, sitting on the original side, heard a petition presented by Mr. F. S. Sorabji on behalf of Bai Manga, widow of Manilal Chhaganlal, deceased, for letters of administration of her late husband's estate. Chhaganlal Jaishankar, her father-in-law, opposed the application, on the ground that the property was his own and not that of Bai Manga's husband. Mr. F. S. Taleyarkhan and Mr. R. D. Wadia, instructed by Messrs. Raghavaya and Nagindas, appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. Bahadurji instructed by Messrs. Bhaishanker and Kanga, appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Taleyarkan, in opening the case for the petitioner, said that the plaintiff's husband died in June, 1911, leaving property, both movable and immovable. The immovable properties were situated in the Gaekwar's territories, and the movable property consisted in fifty-eight shares of the Burma Trading Company. The petitioner prayed for letters of administration of the property, and for the possession of the shares. Mr. Wadia contended that the plaintiff was a minor and asked that a commission might be appointed to ascertain the age of the plaintiff; that the suit could not proceed unless a guardian was appointed.

At this stage Mr. Taleyarkhan intimated that the parties had come to a settlement.

His lordship reduced the terms to writing. The terms were that the plaintiff was to be declared to be of age, and was to be granted letters of administration of her late husband's estate. The defendant was to pay his costs and the costs of the plaintiff was to come from the estate. A sum of Rs. 2,000 was to be paid to the defendant in satisfaction of the claim. The fifty-eight shares of the Burma Trading Company was to be delivered to the plaintiff by the defendant.

PROPERTY OF OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE'S HEAD CLERK.

On Saturday Mr. Justice Heaton disposed of a suit in which property worth ten lakhs of rupees, left by Sadashiv Shankar Wagh, late head clerk of the Official Assignee of the Bombay High Court, was in dispute.

In this suit Messrs. Bulabhai Desai and Kanga, instructed by Messrs. Edgelow Gulabchand and Co. appeared for the plaintiffs, and the Hon. Mr. Setalvad and Mr. Tarachand, instructed by Messrs. Malvi Hiralal and Co., appeared for the defendants. The first plaintiff, Shankar Anandrao Wagh, was the son of the late Anandrao Wagh, a younger brother of Sadashivrao. There were twenty three defendants of whom the original first defendant, Sadashivrao, since deceased, and defendants two to seven were his sons and the eighth defendant, Parvatibai, was Sadashivrao's widow.

Sadashivrao was a native of Fort Sadashivgad in Karwar. His father was a Government pensioner. Sadashivrao came to Bombay and obtained employment in the office of the Official Assignee, and soon after his younger brother, Anandrao, followed him to Bombay, and Sadashivrao had him employed under him. The two brothers worked together, lived together, and put their earnings in one common stock and started buying properties in Girgaum, Santa Cruz, Karwar and other places. They also commenced to buy ornaments, gold and silver utensils and valuable securities and shares. Death overtook Anandrao in the midst of his success, and Sadashivrao continued to manage the property. Shankar, the plaintiff, was a minor at this time and lived with his uncle, who provided for his education and bringing up. It had, however, recently come to the knowledge of the first plaintiff, (no longer a minor), that his uncle, Sadashivrao, had, it was alleged, with a view to defrauding him of his late father's share, invested large sums of money belonging to the joint family, in purchasing immovable properties in the names of other people. For instance, he purchased property worth a lakh and a half on Pallow Road, Girgaum, in the name of Parvatibai, his wife. She now claimed this property as having been purchased out of her own money. She was the daughter of a poor man, and had neither property nor money of her own. Then Sadashivrao purchased valuable property at Santa Cruz, Karwar and other places in the names of his sons. He also bought in their names shares in the Mysore Weaving Company. The value of the property was put down at rupees ten lakhs and the plaintiff claimed half of this as property acquired with the funds which were placed by his late father in the common stock. After hearing evidence and counsel, Mr. Justice Heaton passed a decree for the plaintiffs as against defendants one to eight for Rs. 32,000 in full satisfaction of their claims in this suit or otherwise. In default of payment the plaintiffs to have charge of the Pallow Road property.

His lordship declared that this decree was for the benefit of the minors concerned in this suit.

EDITOR IN COURT.

Mr. Justice Macleod disposed of a suit, filed by Bai Jimabai and Hormusji N. Vakil, executors of the will of the late Mahomed Haji Saboo Siddick, in which they claimed to recover Rs. 2,000 from Kazi Ismail Kaji Mahomed Mia, proprietor and editor of the Akhbar-i-Islam a daily muslim paper. The Hon. Mr. Jardine, with Mr. Jehanghir H. Vakil instructed by Messrs. Payne and Co., appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. F. S. Taleyarkhan and Mr. D. F. Mulla, instructed by Messrs. Mulla and Mulla, appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Jardine stated that his clients had no personal knowledge of the matter, but the entries in the books of account of the deceased, signed by the defendant's son, Kazi Abdul Rahim, on behalf of his father, proved the case.

Mr. Taleyarkhan stated that the defendant had in his written statement admitted payment of two sums of Rs. 1,000 each. We, however, denied that they were loans. The first sum of Rs. 1,000 was paid by the deceased to be given to a third party for his trouble in bringing about the purchase of a building and the claim, if any, was barred by limitation. As regards the second sum of Rs. 1,000, he said that this was paid to the defendant for services rendered in connection with certain transaction, which the deceased had with one Mahomed Yusufbhai Jariwala. Mr. Jardine led evidence by examining Narayen Dayal, the munim, as to the entries in the account books.

Mr. Taleyarkhan objected to evidence being led with regard to the first item of Rs. 1,000, on the ground that the receipt for this amount was not stamped. It was, therefore, inadmissible in evidence. Mr. Taleyarkhan then examined the defendant in support of the statement made in his written statement.

His lordship observed that the defendant had satisfactorily explained the object for which the two sums of Rs. 1,000 each had been received by him. The Court held that they were not loans and dismissed the suit, and ordered the plaintiffs to pay the costs of the defendant.

THE "PERSIA."

The P. and O. s. s. "Persia" went into dry dock yesterday afternoon for the purpose of a thorough examination of her bottom, in consequence of her recent grounding. However, the report of the divers was only confirmed. She is quite undamaged and will leave dry dock to-day.

NEWS LATER THAN THE MAIL

THE LONDON STRIKE.

The following news, later than the mail, appear in the Australian paper:

London, July 20.

The London strike committee has appealed to Mr. Gompers, the leader of the labour movement in America, to help the starving London strikers and their families.

The committee, in a manifesto issued yesterday, declared :—"The employers have flagrantly broken their agreements and have pilfered nearly £500,000 from the men's wages. Over 60 per cent. of the transport workers earn less than £1 a week. The strike funds are exhausted, and 400,000 persons are starving. We urgently appeal for assistance."

Mr. Ben. Tillett, in supporting the manifesto, calls upon the Government to force "Lord Devonport and his gang of thieves" from power, and he adds :—"If anybody deserves to be killed it is that gang, who, smiling under the security afforded by the bayonets of the soldiers and the bludgeons of the police, are maddening the men. I would deem it a righteous act to rob the Bank of England for the men's benefit.

Lord Devonport says he has refused to allow the men to resume work on the conditions that existed prior to the strike, because the concession granted to them in August last had been abused and it had enabled the leaders of the workers to enforce the Federation tickets upon men applying for work. The employers were now determined that the men would not be permitted to resume work except upon the conditions that prevailed before August last.

BRITISH SECURITIES.

London, July 19.

In the course of a speech in the City yesterday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Lloyd George) stated that one reason for the depreciation of the value of British securities was a conspiracy to run them down. This had been operating for years on platforms and in the Press. When there existed an organised attempt to decry and disparage securities the result must affect the market.

The "Times," commenting upon this speech, declares that the notion of such a conspiracy as that referred to is ridiculous, and it adds:—Mr. Lloyd George is the first Chancellor who has never shown a disposition to consult the financial men of the city and elsewhere who understand the broad aspect of finance. He had adopted an attitude of antagonism to them, and he has disdained co-operation as he had been determined to trust to his own headstrong ignorance.

PANAMA CANAL.

London, July 20.

The Washington correspondent of the "Daily Mail" states : "There are numerous signs that the Senate will abandon the idea of allowing American coasting vessels to pass free through the Panama Canal. Senator Lodge admits that he has lost all hope of carrying the provision of free passage for American ships. As the House of Representatives is opposed to the payment of a subsidy for refunding tolls, the prospects in favour of the prompt recognition of Great Britain's view are bright."

Washington, July 21.

During a debate on the Panama Canal question in the Senate yesterday Mr. Smith argued that the canal strip was American territory.

Mr. Ledge concurred in the contention that when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was drafted nobody expected the United States to acquire the canal zone.

Mr. Smith then pointed out that the United States had never arbitrated upon Colombia's claim for redress for the loss of Panama..

Mr. Bacon replied that it was to America's eternal disgrace that she treated a weaker nation as she had done in Colombia's case.

PORTUGUESE ROYALISTS.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The reading of the Barometer at the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 32 F. and for Calcutta standard at 8 a. m. (local time) August 3 was £29·748 inches. The height of observatory barometer cistern above zero of the tide gauge at Apollo Bunder is 14 feet. The height of tide in the stream above zero of the tide gauge was 7 feet, at 8 a. m. (local time). The temperature correction for a mericurial barometer, supposing the reading to be 30·00 inches and that of the attached thermometer 80 deg. F. will be 14in. and this will be higher or lower by 01 inch for each 4 degrees. In the case of the aneroid no temperature correction is required. Should the height of barometer cistern, either mercurial or aneroid above zero of the gauge be different from 47 feet, it will be read higher or lower by 6 inches for 11 feet. The readings above are distinct from those given in the daily weather report to which different corrections have been applied.

VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD

This remarkable compound, the latest discovery of modern times for all phases of brain and nerve wreckage and exhaustion, sleeplessness, tremblings, palpitation, nervous dyspepsia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, muscular and local weakness, general and nervous debility, faulty nutrition, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, impaired vitality, harassing dreams, night disturbances, sudden startings, dimness of sight, defective hearing, loss of memory, inability to perform the various duties of life, or to enjoy its pleasures, restlessness that can settle to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, painful periods, backache, bearing down sensations, nervous headache, wasting disease, night sweats, &c., whether induced by worry, overwork, unhealthy climate, dissipation, excesses, or other influences incidental to the wear and tear and haste or over-strain of modern life. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, restores the failing energies, and imparts new life and vigour to those who had so recently seemed played out, "used up," and valueless.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE

Never before was there anything like it, nor can its marvellous properties ever be equalled in all cases of poorness, impurity, or other imperfection of the blood from whatever cause arising. No sooner is it imbibed into the system than it permeates and penetrates to the minutest capillaries, overcoming and expelling the virus of disease, wheresoever and in whatsoever form met with; removing all blotches, pimples, scurf, scurvy, scrofulous and glandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, &c. Its effects are almost magical in the treatment of gout, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, pains and swellings of the joints, discharges, blood poison, secondary symptoms, eczema, lepra, psoriasis, bad legs, bad breasts, abscesses, ulcers, wounds, sores, goitre or Derbyshire neck, it improves the general health, and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma, and hacking, straining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

CAUTION.—Ask for "VETARZO Brain and Nerve Food," or "VETARZO Blood Medicine," whichever is required, and see that you get them, as unprincipled vendors often try to palm off inferior preparations (usually their own manufacture), for the sake of extra profit. Price in England, 2/9. Every genuine bottle of these medicines bears the British Government Stamp with the words "VETARZO REMEDIES" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground. Registered Trade Mark, "VETARZO."
